

COLLABORATIVE GOVERNANCE

Theory and Lessons from Israel

ABOUT THE BOOK

This book is the first to explore collaborative governance arrangements in Israel. It offers a new, modular definition of collaborative governance, focusing on its contributions toward public values and democracy. The book discusses different kinds of collaborations, their scope, implications and impact on governability in Israel, a country which provides an interesting setting for learning about collaborative governance, given its heterogenous population and the nature of the relationship between the state's civil service, the business sector and the civil society. The book presents examples derived from local and central government levels, and from policy areas such as education, regulation and local government.

"This edited volume brings a fresh set of eyes to the question of whether collaborative governance is a useful policy tool. Investigating a rich set of Israeli examples, the authors critically probe both the potential and the limits of collaborative governance as a strategy for creating public value and enhancing democracy. The findings are edifying."

CHRISTOPHER ANSELL, PROFESSOR AT THE UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, BERKELEY, USA

"Collaborative Governance: Theory and Lessons from Israel makes valuable contributions, both conceptually and empirically, to investigating the conditions under which collaborative governance is more or less effective. It insightfully uses an in-depth examination of Israeli cases to explore collaborative governance arrangements."

YAEL ARONOFF, ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY, USA

BOOK WEBSITE »»

EDITORS

Neta Sher-Hadar is a Lecturer in Public Policy at the Mandel School for Educational Leadership and in the Department of Public Administration and Policy at Sapir Academic College, Israel.

Lihi Lahat is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Public Administration and Policy at Sapir Academic College, Israel, and Affiliate Associate Professor in the Azrieli Institute of Israel Studies at Concordia University, Canada.

Itzhak Galnoor is a Professor of Political Science at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, and Senior Fellow at the Van Leer Jerusalem Institute, Israel.

PALGRAVE
MACMILLAN
2021