Welcome from Bar-Ilan University President

Dear AIS members,

Welcome to Bar-Ilan University! Bar-Ilan University was founded in 1955 and became one of Israel's leading institutions of higher education, uniquely combining cutting-edge scientific research with education steeped in Jewish values and social responsibility. We are proud of our exceptional academic education and cutting-edge scientific research. But no less than that, we are proud of our sense of community, diversity, pluralism, and the remarkable merging of Jewish heritage and academic excellence. All this and much more happens in our picturesque campus.

Students and faculty from BIU's faculties of Judaism, Law, Interdisciplinary Studies, Humanities, Education, and Social Science are among the world's leading scholars in the study of Israeli society. Hence I was happy, together with BIU's rector, professor Amnon Albeck, and the university CEO Mr. Zohar Yinon, for the opportunity to encourage exploring issues of conflicts and mobility in Israel by hosting the 38th AIS annual conference. On the day after the conference, Bar-Ilan university will continue to be a hub for Israel Studies on a national and global scale.

The conference would not have been possible without certain people that I would like to thank in person. I would like to thank Prof. Arie Saposnik, AIS president, and his wonderful team. Thanks are also due to the program committee, led by professors Lilach Rosenberg-Friedman and Hizky Shoham, for putting together a cutting-edge program and a high-level conference. We are all particularly grateful to conference administrator, Dr. Izik Pass, who, along with many of our administrative staff, made this conference happen.

I wish you all a fruitful, meaningful, and enjoyable conference.

Prof. Arie Zaban

Welcome from the AIS President

It is always the president's privilege to welcome the participants to our annual meeting. I feel particularly privileged to be welcoming you all to this gathering, the 38th annual meeting of the association, and the first one in which we will convene face-to-face after two difficult years. Our conference in 2020 had to be cancelled due to the Corona pandemic, and our 37th meeting was held virtually last year. As I write this, there are some indications of another wave possibly developing, but we remain optimistic that we will in fact be gathering in person to undertake our business of learning from one another and making connections between scholars of Israel from around the world.

This is a challenging time beyond the Covid pandemic as well. We will be meeting, it appears, as Russia's war against Ukraine continues and threatens to expand. It seems to have already ushered in a new global era that is sure to have an impact on the ways in which we will study Israel, on international collaborations and on other aspects of our ongoing activity, many of which are difficult to foresee at this point. Numerous scholars from Ukraine and from Russia have now become refugees, and many of our colleagues have been involved in hosting them at institutions in many countries. As these global changes take place before our eyes and shape a new world order, our own corner of academic activity, the field of Israel Studies, is in a period of institutional and methodological flux, even as the nature of academic work—certainly in the humanities and social sciences—is itself facing a range of challenges and trials.

Within these contexts, AIS has been working to bolster our collaborations and to enhance the field of Israel Studies internationally. We have growing networks of scholars in China, India, Brazil, and have been in the process of solidifying our relationship and collaborative basis with our sister organization, the European Association for Israel Studies.

Academic work, as we all know (and would do well to remind ourselves daily), takes place in conversation and dialogue, and the more we can expand our frameworks of discourse and analysis, the deeper we can hope to probe, and the richer our understandings and analyses. This, of course, is the principal goal of the enhanced networking and collaboration that we have been undertaking, and it is represented inter alia in the rich and diverse program that our hosts at Bar Ilan, together with the program committee, have put together.

It is with this in mind that we will convene at our General Assembly this year with the need to reach a crucial decision: The Middle East Studies Association (MESA) recently adopted a pro-BDS resolution, and we will consequently have to make a decision as to our continued relationship with them. The formal reason for bringing this to the General Assembly is that our affiliation with MESA is written in our bylaws, and any change in the bylaws requires a vote of the members who attend our GA. The importance of the discussion at the General Assembly, however, goes beyond this (important) formality and touches on matters of principal and the very identity of the AIS. The AIS Board met in a special session this spring to discuss the matter, and passed by majority vote a resolution that determined that the Association will end its affiliation with MESA until such time as MESA should retract its pro-BDS resolution. It is important to stress the two main motivations for this resolution: First, as a matter of principle, AIS is an academic association and does not affiliate with ideological, political or advocacy groups. Secondly, the MESA resolution has a direct bearing on all AIS members whose affiliations are with Israeli academic institutions. At the date of this writing, these constitute some 60% of our membership. It is the view of the majority of the AIS Board that given these two factors, AIS cannot continue to be an affiliated society of MESA. We now bring this decision to the full membership of our association for ratification at the General Assembly.

AIS is determined to continue to stand for academic freedom and integrity and for the ability of scholars to convene and to pursue knowledge—and that modicum of truth which we strive to glimpse and to unveil in our work—to freely study Israeli society, culture, politics, and history.

It is my pleasure, then, to welcome you all to this 38th annual meeting of the Association for Israel Studies. As I noted above, we are very pleased at the rich and varied program, and we are excited to be able to learn from it in a face-to-face format. I am extremely grateful to Anina Selve, Stephanie Colley and Asaf Shamis—our outstanding AIS administrative staff—for their dedicated and tireless work in bringing this together. I am pleased to take this opportunity to welcome our newest staff member, Romy Ronen, who joins as our new social media manager. I thank the Bar-Ilan team, led by Lilach Rosenberg-Friedman, Hizky Shoham and Izik Pass, for hosting us this year, for putting together this excellent program, and for the productive and pleasant collaboration that went into its preparation. Thanks are due to the program committee and its vital work on the program. I have had exceptionally good fortune to be working with an AIS Executive that is a constant source of wisdom and support—Vice President

Rafi Cohen-Almagor, Treasurer Ilan Ben-Ami and Executive Director Asaf Shamis.

I look forward to having us all gather at the green and pleasant Bar-Ilan campus, and to having a chance to catch up with colleagues we haven't seen in a while and, I hope, to make new acquaintances.

Wishing us all a productive and stimulating conference,

Arieh Saposnik, President.

Welcome from the AIS Conference Chairs

Dear AIS members and colleagues,

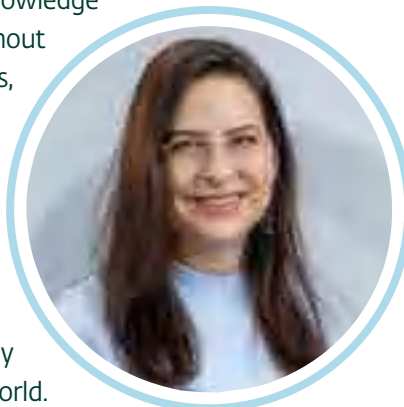

Welcome to Bar-Ilan University! We are honored to host the 38th Annual Conference of the Association for Israel Studies.

Both of us grew up at Bar-Ilan University and developed here professionally and personally. Being around for more than two decades in different capacities, we experienced firsthand the deep transformations the university went through: how it increasingly accentuated excellence, cutting-edge research, and scientific breakthroughs; how it tremendously diversified its student body and faculty; and how it advanced innovative academic initiatives and curricula, while daringly raising controversial issues. In conducting intensive critical discussions of its distinctive institutional ethos, the university fostered its unique campus atmosphere and inspired a variety of opinions, thoughts, and research methods. This resulted in many unanticipated conversations held in the numerous classes which bring together all sectors of Israeli society. Both of us witnessed this development since our first day as students; we are proud to participate in these conversations today as faculty members.

As long-time members of the Association of Israel Studies community, both of us conduct productive dialogues between its unique academic discourse, our respective fields, and our home institution. Hence, we warmly welcome the opportunity to connect AIS with Bar-Ilan, which will mutually enrich both organizations and will hopefully be an important milestone for the academic development of the field of Israel Studies.

Given the significance of diversity on our campus, it was only appropriate that the conference topic be Israel: Conflicts and Mobility in a Diverse Society. During these three intensive days, you are all invited to acquire cutting-edge knowledge of conflicts within and without Israeli society, culture, politics, and history; in matters such as gender and sexualities, or minorities and ethnicities (both Jewish and non-Jewish), as well as learning more about the place of Israel vis-à-vis the rapidly changing Jewish and Arab world. Please do not fear examining anything.

The first on-site conference in three years would not be possible without quite a few people that we want to thank in person.

First, AIS President Arie B. Saposnik and Vice President Rafi Cohen-Almagor, as well as the wonderful AIS staff: Ilan Ben-Ami, Asaf Shamis, Stephanie Colley, and the vigorous Anina Selve. Thanks are due also to the members of the program committee who worked hard to maintain the high academic level of the sessions, papers, roundtables, and panels, so as to present the most up-to-date scholarly research on Zionism, the Yishuv, and Israel. We are also grateful to Bar-Ilan's academic and administrative staff, beginning with our steering committee: Nissim Leon, Jonathan Rynhold, Elisheva Rosman-Stollman, Yehuda U. Blanga, Amira Schiff, Manal Totry-Jubran, and Gilly Hartal. Our President, Prof. Arie Zaban, the Rector, Prof. Amnon Albeck, and the CEO, Mr. Zohar Yinon were enthusiastic supporters of this conference from the very first moment. Lastly, and perhaps most importantly, Dr. Izik Pass, the conference administrator, who was on top of just about everything and always with a calming smile.

We wish you all a fruitful and gratifying conference in our flowery campus in Ramat-Gan. Enjoy meeting in the three-dimensional world!

In Memoriam

Dr. Tally Kritzman-Amir [Z"l]

AIS Board member since 2019

On Saturday, May 21, 2022, our colleague, Dr. Tally Kritzman-Amir passed away. A member of the Association for Israel Studies board and of the conference's organizing committee, a scholar committed to the study of law and society in Israel, and an activist on behalf of refugees and asylum-seekers—Tally will be deeply missed by the Israel Studies community worldwide.

Tally received her LL. B (cum lauda, 2002) and Ph.D. (2009) from the Tel Aviv University School of Law, and then clerked for Justice Mishael Cheshin in the Israeli Supreme Court. She held positions at the Ramat Gan College of Law and Business, where she founded the clinic for refugee rights, as well as Boston University, Harvard, Yale, NYU, and the Van-Leer institute in Jerusalem. Tally's work focused particularly on refugees and asylum law in Israel. Her pioneering and penetrating scholarship is among the most important contributions to the study of this formative aspect of Israeli law and society. At the same time, Tally promoted the rights and well-being of the refugee and asylum-seeker community in Israel. According to Anat Ben-Dor from the Refugee Rights Clinic at Tel Aviv University, "Her impact on her field is long-lasting. She founded a legal clinic, published prolifically, cultivated students, and formed partnerships. The book she edited (Where Levinski Meets Asmara: Asylum Seekers and Refugees in Israel – Social and Legal Aspects) and the articles and book chapters she wrote document, analyze, and criticize the reception of refugees and migrants by the State of Israel. Her work is an essential part of any syllabus on immigration to Israel and is often cited by Israeli courts and scholars."

Tally is the 2022 recipient of the AIS Early Career Award, in recognition of her important contribution to scholarship on Israel. The selection committee

v o t e d unanimously to grant Tally the award given the "sheer breadth and depth of her achievements, unparalleled by many distinguished researchers".

Here are a few more words about her from colleagues and friends:

"A former student, among the brightest I have ever had, who then became my colleague and co-author, for me Tally has been above all a beloved friend and a most reliable source of knowledge to whom I could always turn when searching for advice and clarity regarding the ever changing and often obscure socio-legal world of migration." (Adriana Kemp, Tel-Aviv University)

"Her work, conducted in conjunction with a coalition of advocates in Israel, was both theoretically fascinating and of huge practical importance to the lives of many disempowered and marginalized women. Tally was a passionate advocate for the disadvantaged, always seeking to use her skills as a scholar and relationship-builder to take action on their behalf. A typical email from her pointed to the rise in domestic violence or homicide against women in Israel and suggested how we could work together to highlight these issues and support research on them. I will miss her voice and hope to carry forward her vision for a more compassionate and equal world." (Lisa Fishbayn Joffe, Brandeis University)

Our deep condolences to Tally's mother, husband, daughters, and sister

Tally will be terribly missed.

Bar-Ilan University

Bar-Ilan University, founded in 1955, is one of Israel's leading institutions of higher education, uniquely combining cutting-edge scientific research with education steeped in Jewish values and social responsibility. From 70 students to close to 19,000, its milestone achievements in the sciences and humanities and all fields of human endeavor have made an indelible imprint on the landscape of the State of Israel.

The university has nine faculties: Jewish Studies, Medicine, Engineering, Law, Life Sciences, Exact Sciences, Social Sciences, Education, and Humanities. These faculties are active partners in Israel's national science and technology initiatives. Seeking "Impact beyond Excellence", BIU has created challenge-driven research centers which embrace practical research designed to change and improve the human experience. Our 130,000 alumni lead the workforce in Israel and worldwide.

A microcosm of Israeli society, BIU's diverse student body includes both secular and religious; Jews and non-Jews; as well as new immigrants and international visitors. Some 1,000 students from more than 30 countries attend Bar-Ilan, which offers a unique atmosphere for open exchange of ideas and embracement of the "other." Diversity is key on the BIU campus, and tolerance and civility our operating code.

Our students learn to assume social responsibility and address challenges facing Israel, and the world. Bar-Ilan is the only university in Israel to successfully unite academic excellence and advanced research with Jewish heritage. Our students benefit from enriching their background with Jewish thought, Bible studies, Land of Israel studies and Talmud studies. Serving as a bridge between Israel's diverse sectors, Bar-Ilan University, with its multicultural campus environment, provides a singular forum for free thought and open discussion.

Israel Studies

University of Haifa

The Department of Israel Studies at the University of Haifa offers a multidisciplinary approach on the studies of the different nations and peoples who acted, lived and still live in the space of Palestine/Eretz-Israel, and in the State of Israel. Accordingly, the program comprises a variety of disciplines, such as: History, Geography, Sociology, Anthropology, and Cultural Studies of the country. The Area Studies approach strives to develop in our students the ability and competence to understand the land of Israel, its physical components, and its historical uniqueness. It also prepares our students to teach, guide tourists and pupils, and to research present and past events, processes and changes which have shaped landscapes of the country. As one of the leading academic centers for the study of Israel, the Department for Israel Studies at the University of Haifa has hosted the Executive Director office of the Association for Israel Studies since 2015.

The International Master's Degree Program in Israel Studies

The Department of Israel Studies offers an international MA program in Israel studies. The program gives the students the opportunity to partake in an in-depth study of the State of Israel covering periods of the beginning of the Zionist movement to the present day. The program aims to elucidate the theoretical underpinnings of the Zionist project, communities of the Jewish diaspora and their relationship to the modern state of Israel, and the deep complexities of Israeli society in light of its multicultural character.

This is a one-year MA program, taught in English, open to both International and Israeli students. It examines Israeli history and society from a variety of perspectives, including migration, economics, politics, culture, religion, and the ties between Israel and Jewish communities abroad. We offer a comprehensive academic program, which features a fascinating and dynamic curriculum combining concurrent study in the classroom and in the field. The program integrates faculty-led field trips and tours to historical and archaeological sites. The students also meet with representatives from different sectors that make up Israeli society. The program offers tuition scholarships of 4,500 US Dollars to all students.

The Ruderman Program for American Jewish Studies is a unique and groundbreaking academic program established in 2013 at the University of Haifa. The Ruderman Program covers a wide range of issues pertaining to Jewish life in the United States, the American society and the long-lasting and important bond between the American Jewish community, the State of Israel and Israeli society. The main goal of the program is to strengthen the relationship between the Israeli society and American Jewry, by expanding current knowledge, distributing it, and creating a well-founded educated community to act in academia and Israeli professional field. The Ruderman Program has two branches: one is multidisciplinary and comprehensive MA studies program; and the second is promoting research on American Jewry, past and present, and creating a knowledge base for decision makers, opinion leaders, policy makers, professionals and for all those who take part in the public discourse in Israel (taught in Hebrew) (for more details: <http://ajs.haifa.ac.il/index.php/en/>). The program offers tuition scholarships of 5,000 US Dollars to all students.

Jewish Israeli Culture is a multidisciplinary graduate program belongs to the departments of Hebrew and Comparative Literature, and Jewish History at The University of Haifa. The program aims to expose the students to a vast range of Jewish traditions and works through an interdisciplinary, critical and creative view, and to enable them to achieve a significant learning experience with relevancy to Jewish questions today. The program suggests two alternative tracks: a thesis track, and a non-thesis track. Students will enjoy a full tuition scholarship, courtesy of the Posen Foundation.

Jewish Peoplehood Studies is a multidisciplinary graduate program of the Department of Jewish History. This program will explore the theoretical roots of the 21st century paradigm of global Jewish peoplehood and will survey the key issues informing the Jewish peoplehood discourse as well as the social processes that shape Jewish society in Israel and Jewish communities worldwide. The program will critically analyze the diverse ways Jews experience belonging, connection, and responsibility to the Jewish people focusing mainly, but not exclusively, on post-war Europe, with particular emphasis on Eastern and Central Europe, Latin America and the Jewish experience in contemporary small- and medium-sized communities. The program offers full tuition scholarships for ten students on the research thesis track (for more details: <http://amaya.haifa.ac.il/index.php/en/>)

PARADIGM LOST:

FROM TWO-STATE SOLUTION TO ONE-STATE REALITY

Ian Lustick, University of Pennsylvania

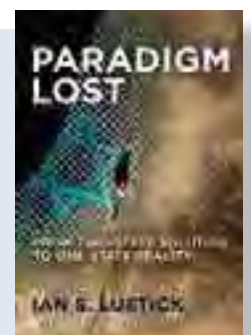

Now in Hebrew, with a new preface by the author

PARADIGM LOST argues that negotiations for a two-state solution between the Mediterranean Sea and the Jordan River are now both doomed and counterproductive. Israeli Jews and Palestinian Arabs can enjoy the democracy they deserve, but only after decades of struggle amid the unintended but powerful consequences of today's one-state reality.

"Lustick's book is rational and not prone to utopias... out of deep concern, he seeks to contribute to a greater understanding among American, Israeli, and Palestinian readers of a situation that seems to many of them to be hopeless." Shlomo Zand, Haaretz

"Ian Lustick is arguably the foremost scholar of Israeli society and politics in the US... Paradigm Lost is a path-breaking book, anchoring the credo of the 'one-state reality paradigm' in a foundational text." Yoav Peled, Israel Studies Review

BGRI Infrastructure Information Systems

BGRI-IIS maintains and operates the Ben-Gurion Archives and a 56,000-item up-to-date academic library. The Ben-Gurion Archives contain more than four million items related to David Ben-Gurion, among other historic document collections, and initiates projects for the acquisition of new collections of primary sources related to Israel Studies.

The current mission of BGRI-IIS, made possible by the generosity of the David and Janet Polak Foundation, involves translating important segments of the archives into English and providing full text recognition of the archives' historical documents in order to support digital research.

Providing expertise and education about modern Israel, and promoting Israel Studies at UCLA and beyond.

The Nazarian Center for Israel Studies sponsors academic courses about Israel for UCLA students, generates and disseminates scholarly research in the field of Israel Studies, and engages a global audience with frequent public programs throughout the academic year.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SCHOLARS

POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS

The Center offers a one-year postdoctoral fellowship in Israel Studies for exceptional scholars at an early stage of their careers, whose presence at UCLA would strengthen the study of modern Israel.

VISITING FACULTY & SCHOLARS

The Center hosts visiting faculty from a wide range of disciplines to teach courses at UCLA and conduct their own research. The Center also hosts visiting scholars for non-teaching appointments.

THE ROSALINDE AND ARTHUR GILBERT FOUNDATION PRIZE FOR EXCELLENCE IN ISRAEL STUDIES TEACHING

The Center is excited to announce this first-of-its-kind prize to honor outstanding contributions to undergraduate and/or graduate teaching about modern Israel in any discipline. This $5,000 prize will be awarded on an annual basis to a faculty member or lecturer in North America.
